The WWRF wheel loader is used to move and load material from the WWRF Biosolids and also various large trash items for disposal. This specialized bucket will attach to the current loader and allow moving large amounts of material to be loaded into trucks for disposal. John Deere uses a system of local dealers to provide equipment, parts, and service for John Deere machines.
Four Rivers Equipmentour is our regional/local supplier of John Deere Construction Equipment, Parts, and Service. This bucket attachement requires specialized knowledge and tooling for installation therefore only Four Rivers Equipment, our local John Deere dealer, can properly install this equipment and ensure all macine integrity and function is maintained.

Bill,

I spoke with my service manager about installing third function on your loader and he would rather not take on the job. We are a Volvo dealer and have installed these kits on Volvo loaders and, even with the technical support offered by the factory, it is a difficult task. With your Deere we would not have access to factory diagrams and schematics. Given the distance involved, we would also have problems in being sure we showed up with everything we would need for the installation. We feel you would have a better end result by having a dealer with factory support and training do this installation. 4Rivers has a branch in Hobbs and would probably be your best option.

The 3-yd. grapple bucket from Paladin you requested would be $19,252.00 plus freight from Ohio. Lead time is about 60-days. 4Rivers is also a Paladin dealer and may be able to offer the hydraulic kit and bucket for a lower price as a package deal.

Thank you for the call and the opportunity but I think we will decline quoting the installation in your best interests.

Regards,

Cody,

Here are the tags for the machine and the current bucket and forks. I don't think you'll need them but too much info is better than not enough. Have a great rest of your day. BG
